Excerpt: .of any convenient size that can be filled accurately and quickly, will answer the purpose equally well, if a measure of the same size is used for both the sample and the tablet solution. Each measureful of tablet solution made up as directed, will in this case represent one-tenth per cent. of acid in the sample tested. 150. b, Cream. Creamican be tested in the way already described for testing the acidity of fresh milk, by adding to one measureful of cream in the cup as many measures of tablet solution as are necessary to change the color of the cream when the two liquids are thoroughly mixed. If one measure of tablet solution colors one measure of cream, this contains less than.1 per cent. acid; if five measures of tablet solution are required, the cream contains about.5 per cent. acid, etc. By proceeding in the manner described, the operator can estimate the acidity to within.05 per cent. of acid, if half measures of tablet solution are added. The re lln European creameries and city milk depots the alcohol test is often applied to every can of milk received; milk that is sufficiently sour to be noticed by the taste, Will coagulate when mixed with an equal volume of 70 alcohol. sults thus obtained are sufficiently delicate for all practical purposes. 151. Detection of boracic-acid preservatives in milk. The application of the alkaline tablet test for detecting the boracic acid in milk was first...
